

Geography activities for Rehaan

Hi Rehaan!

We're going to look at the continent of Asia this week. Asia is a fascinating continent because it is home to so many different countries, landscapes, religious and climates.

On Monday, spend some time researching Asia by looking at these websites and watching these videos:

Now, I want you to choose 5 countries in Asia that intrigue you! These will be the countries that you research this week. Research one country a day and find out interesting information about each country. Use the links I've shown you and use Google to help you (please be safe – if you see anything inappropriate online then close the window immediately).

I want you to research:

- Population
- Climate
- Religion
- Capital city
- Tourist attractions
- Wildlife
- Any other interesting facts

Write down all of your information on a word document and illustrate it with pictures. Email it to me at the end of the week so I can read it.

Here are some pictures that might inspire you...

I took this picture from the top of the second tallest building in the world. What country is this?

The most beautiful building that I've ever seen in my life. What country is this?

Asia has some of the best beaches in this world. What country could I have taken this in? (Clue – it's beneath the country in the second picture!).

These are the tallest twin towers in the world. What country did I take this picture in?

Asia is an amazing continent and I hope you enjoying learning about it this week!
